Biography

Dr Rosarii Griffin is a lecturer and researcher whose expertise is in international and comparative education. At UCC, Rosarii is currently researching the potential impact of BREXIT on the Irish third level education sector. Rosarii has over 20 years experience of teaching and researching at UCC, Harvard, Oxford and Brussels (ULB). She was a guest lecturer in 'international education' in Japan, Korea, Turkey, Cyprus, UK (LSE, Oxford and Hull Universities), and the USA. Rosarii's projects focus on pedagogical capacity-building issues pertaining to teaching and learning, curriculum, assessment and professional development education. She has gained extensive experience of working in Africa: South Africa, Lesotho, Uganda, Malawi and Rwanda. She is currently an Executive Steering member of UCC's Centre for Global Development (2012-19). Rosarii is also a Director of the International Researcher Association (2017-2019); Chairperson of UCC's Researcher Staff Association (2017-2019) and was twice elected Governor at UCC, most recently 2014-19. Rosarii was Director of the Centre of Research for Global Development, Limerick (2008-11), and Director of the NGO Action Lesotho (2011-15). Rosarii is also a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts, London. Previously, Rosarii was elected President of Graduates, St Hugh's College, Oxford (2000-1) and Vice-President, Exeter College, Oxford (1998 & 2000). Since then, Rosarii has published four books and numerous chapters and articles on 'international and comparative education' issues. Rosarii also presents a weekly award winning radio 'Perspectives' show based on social justice issues. She has two children whom are at the centre of her life.
